About ergoCentric

At ergoCentric we apply the science of ergonomics to the design of our chairs and workstations and to the services we offer, such as fitting 100% of the population, end user training and our ability to reconfigure chairs to meet changing needs, which is supported by our serial number system and our unique and patented modular components. All of which is supported by our expert associates.

Ergonomics is a very broad field of knowledge. ergoCentric focuses exclusively on a very small portion of it, that being the ergonomics of office chairs and workstations. We call our focus “the science of sitting”. The result of applying the science of sitting is healthier and more productive employees.
